THE EMPRESS WILL BE GOOD.

16 BRITISH CHASE 2,000 BOXERS.

When Pressed by the European Ambassadors the Empress Resolves to Behave. The Troops on the Way to Pekin—The Isolation of Pekin Yet Continues.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Shanghai, June 13.—Be good or fight is the alternative that China faces. It is said that the empress has chosen the former. Europern powers, it is reported, have forgiven her Manchu advices for the trouble arising from the Boxer uprising and have promised to suppress it.

EMPRESS ACTS LIKE A CHILD

Paris, June 13.—It is officielly stated that a despetch has been received from the French ambassador to China dated yesterday afternoon, saying that the Dowager Empress had informed the ambassadors that the entrance of foreign troops would not be resisted. She acted very much like a chiid and asked in a simple way why troops were being brought into the country. An ambassador told her they were there to protect Europeans, also to guard railway and telegraph lines.

PEKIN STILL ISOLATED.

Shanghai, June 13.—The complete isolation of Pekin continues. Tung Fu Siang, the Empress' most trusted adviser, has promised to make the bravest effort to exterminate foreigners.

London, June 13, 4:42 a. m.—Sixteen British marines reconnoitering in advance of the international column marching to Pekin fought and chased 2,000 Boxers Monday, killing twenty or thirty. A correspondent accompanying the column, in a dispatch dated Tien-Ssin, June 12, via Shanghai, June 12, says:

"While the working party, accompanied by a patrol of sixteen British marines, commanded by Major Johnson, were repairing the line Monday afternoon, eight miles beyond Lofa, they encountered small parties of Boxers who were destroying the line. The Boxers moved away from the advancing marines and apparently dispersed into the country, leaving the rails and sleepers burning.

"The marines when two miles in advance of the first train, near Lang Fang, suddenly perceived Boxers streaming from a village on their left. It was estimated that they numbered 2,000, some of them being mounted, and they were trying to get between the marines and the train. Most of them were armed with spears and swords. A few had firearms which they handled awkwardly. The marines retreated, keeping up a running fight for over a mile and killing between 20 and 30 Boxers.

"The Boxers pursued the British for some distance. Then, seeing more marines from the train coming to their assistance, Major Johnson's men halted and poured a heavy and continuous fire into the crowd, driving them across the front of the re-enforcing blue jackets, who punished the Boxers severely with Maxims.

"The Boxers fled and the Europeans, following up their success, cleared out two villages. The total loss of the Boxers is estimated at 40 killed and wounded. Seven of their wounded wounded were attended by British surgeons. The British loss was nothing.

"Unless their loss causes the Boxers to lose heart, the international column will have much trouble before reaching Pekin. The railway is so much damaged that the column covered only 34 miles Sunday and Monday, and there is reason to fear that the road beyond is more badly damaged.

"Evidences of General Nieh's operations were found in headless bodies. The whole country presents a desolate aspect, entire villages having been deserted. The expedition numbers 2,044, as follows: British, 915; German, 250; Russian, 300; French 128; Americans, 104; Japanese, 52; Italian, 40, and Austrians, 25."

The Bank of France has an ingenious arrangement by which suspicious visitors can be photographed without their knowledge. Behind the desk of the cashier is a hidden photographic studio, and at a signal from any employees of the bank a picture of the suspected customer is instantly taken

A HOT TIME IN THE HOUSE.

THE ELECTION LAW NOW CLINCHED,

No Interference from a Fusion Judiciary —A Populists Gets Gay and Offers a Lot of Amendments—Called Down by the Negro Isaac Smith—The Speech that Senator Franks Didn't Make—Final Democratic Caucus on the Amendment—To Consolidate Sections 4 and 5.

Special Despatch to the Telegram.

Raleigh, N. C., June 13.—The House of Representatives met this morning at 10:15 o'clock. The roll call showed that several additional members had arrived.

Speaker Connor appointed Representative Curtis, of Buncombe county, a member of the Vance statue committee in place of Representative Hart, deceased.

The election law bill was taken up on its third reading, having been introduced by Representative Winston yesterday afternoon, when it passed two readings.

Mr. Johnson, of Sampson county, offered a lot of amendments and took advantage of the occasion to make a speech in which he attacked the Democratic election law as an infamous measure. He gave vent to his feelings and spoke in unmeasured condemnation of the Democratic leaders and their methods.

JUSTICE SCORES A HUCKLE-BERRY POPULIST.

Hon. M. H. Justice, of Rutherford county, made a superb speech in reply to the huckle-berry Populist from Sampson. He showed how negroes had put Johnson and men of his ilk in office, and declared that Democrats were honest, while the names of Holton and Butler were synonymous for political dishonesty and double dealing.

Isaach H. Smith, the negro representative from Craven county, attacked Johnson for saying the negro ought not to have been given the ballot. He asked Johnson if he represented the Populist party in making this assertion. Johnson replied that he represented the white people of the State. Smith waved his hand toward the Democrats and said: "No, these men represent the white people of North Carolina!" At this the house cheered and laughed.

Representative Winston, of Bertie, who had charge of the bill, made a strong speech in its support. Johnson's amendments were lost, receiving only four votes.

Representative Giles, of Chatham county, Republican, offered some amendments and made a speech, to which Curtis, of Buncombe, replied with telling effect.

LOCKE CRAIG GIVES JOHNSON THE LIE.

A stirring speech was made by Representative Locke Craig, of Buncombe, who scored Johnson for saying the election law was an infamous measure. He denounced this assertion as a lie. He also denounced the Republican Supreme Court for its gross and palpable partisanry, nor did he spare the guilty fusion Superior Court judges. Representative Johnson then said he did not intend to impugn the honesty of the Legislature, after which Mr. Craig withdrew his language.

The election law then passed its third reading, only two votes being heard against it.

ELECTION LAW PASSED BY SENATE.

In the Senate the session was very brief. The election law bill came over from the House and passed its various readings without debate. There were only three votes against its passage. Only six minutes were consumed in its passage, and no objection to it came from any source.

After the Senate had adjourned Senator Franks, Republican, entered. He had prepared a great speech which he proposed to make against the election law. When he entered, too late for the speech, the other Senators stood up and applauded him, calling on him to make his speech.

FINAL CAUCUS ON AMENDMENT.

The Democrats held their final caucus on the franchise amendment this morning, at which time it was decided to consolidate sections 4 and 5, thus preparing against an adverse ruling by the Supreme Court on the "grandfather clause."

It was also decided to strike out the provision that poll tax shall be a lien on assessed property. The time of securing tax receipts will be extended from March 1st to May 1st.

GUILTY IN THE SECOND DEGREE.

Will Dick Convicted of the Murder of Charles Thorn.

Will Dick, charged with the murder der of Charles Thorn, has been found guilty in the second degree and will be sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of years. Argument by counsel was concluded and the case put to the jury before the adjournment of court yesterday evening. The case was considered by the jurors until a short time before the convening of court this morning, when it was understood that a decision had been reached.

When court convened at 9 o'clock the jurors took their places in the box and announced that they had agreed upon a verdict. The prisoner was brought before the bar and the spokesman of the jury, Mr. W. H. Warren, rendered a verdict of guilty in the second degree. Upon request of defendant's counsel a poll of the jurors was taken.

The prisoner was remanded to jail to await the sentence of the court.

Bound Over to Court.

J. H. West was before the Mayor yesterday afternoon on a charge of selling wine at his confectionery store and restaurant on South Elm street. Upon the evidence of two witnesses—Will Roberson and Clay Armfield—he was bound over to court.

Mr. West contended that he had sold only unfermented grape juice, which is used at all soda fountains, and exhibited a bottle of it in court.

A STREET RAILWAY INVITED.

ALDERMEN GRANT THE FRANCHISE.

It Now Awaits Acceptance by the Guilford Power Company---Only Minor Changes Made---Must Always Render a Just, Fair and Adequate Service---Other Business Transacted by the Board.

By their action last night the aldermen of Greensboro did their part toward securing for the city what has long been the cherished desire of many of our most prominent citizens—a street railway system. The ordinance introduced by Alderman Scott Friday night, granting the Guilford Power Company a franchise for an electric street railway system and an electric lighting and power plant, was adopted, with one or two slight changes recommended by the special committee appointed to investigate the matter.

The franchise now only awaits acceptance by the Guilford Power Company to become operative, and the ordinance provides that it shall be accepted within 60 days after its adoption by the Board of Aldermen or it shall be void. It is also provided that unless the work of constructing the street railway is begun within sixty days after the acceptance it shall become void.

The principal change in the franchise recommended by the special committee was to the effect that if, at any time during the life of the franchise, the Guilford Power Company should, for a period of 90 days, fail or neglect to render a just, fair and adequate service to the public, unless providentially or otherwise unavoidably hindered, the city should have the right to declare the franchise forfeited, requiring all tracks and other property to be removed at the expense of the company.

Alderman Love, of the committee, submitted a minority report recommending that the franchise be granted, with the exception of that portion allowing the company the privilege of operating a public electric lighting plant. The report stated as the opinion of the author that, on account of the city's intention to own and operate its own lighting plant, the Board of Aldermen was debarred from granting a franchise for this purpose to any outside company. Mr. Love stated that he thought there had been too much haste in this matter and moved to table both reports until the next regular meeting of the board. His motion was seconded by Alderman Ellington.

At this juncture brief remarks were made by several members of the board. Alderman Sergeant stated that, while he thought there was no necessity for haste, he was of the opinion that the franchise was the most liberal the city had ever been requested to grant. He called attention to the fact that, while the privilege of operating a lighting and power plant was requested, nothing was said of any contract for lighting the streets of the city, and this in the face of the fact that those asking for the charter were aware of the fact that the city was preparing to operate its own plant. He further called attention to the fact that by refusing this franchise the city would not be rid of opposition, since another corporation now holds a franchise.

Alderman Love thought there was danger in granting a 30-year franchise on three days' notice and was of the opinion that the Guilford Power Company would probably demand a contract for lighting the city as a precedent to accepting the franchise.

Alderman Joyner was of the opinion that each member of the board had given the matter careful and serious thought and was prepared to vote on the advisability of granting the franchise. He thought it to the advantage of the city to allow another company the privilege of operating an electric lighting plant, thus providing for more competition.

Alderman Boyd stated that it was the purpose of the city to provide for cheap lights and not to make money off the citizens by perpetuating a monopoly.

On the motion to table both reports until the next regular meeting Aldermen Love and Ellington only voted aye, and the motion was declared lost.

Before the question of adopting the minority report was placed before the board Alderman Merrimon moved an amendment providing that that section of the franchise providing for a double track on Elm street be stricken out. The aye and nay vote stood:

Aye—Boyd, Elam, Ellington, Love, Merrimon and Sherwood—6

Nay—Denny, Joyner, Phillips and Sergeant—4.

The adoption of the minority report was lost, Alderman Love being the only member voting in the affirmative.

On the adoption of the majority report as amended the vote stood:

Aye—Boyd, Denny, Elam, Joyner, Merrimon, Phillips, Sherwood and Sergeant—8.

Nay—Ellington and Love—2.

OTHER MATTERS BEFORE THE BOARD.

The special committee appointed to devise and recommend a new system of keeping the city's accounts reported through the chairman, Alderman Boyd, recommending that a complete statement showing the bonded and floating indebtedness of the city and the amount of outstanding warrants, together with all amounts due the city, be made up in order to enable a new set of books to be started. The purchase of suitable books was also recommended. The report was adopted and the committee continued to assist the city clerk in making up the statement and opening the new set of books.

A petition from a number of citizens asking for an electric fire alarm box on Hendrix street was referred to the fire committee.

The duty of looking after the city clock for a period of twelve months was assigned to the Tom Rice Jewelry Company for a consideration of $36.

Mr. W. C. Boren, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, appeared before the board in reference to the sewer to be laid from the new jail. After considerable discussion the chairman of the sewer committee was instructed to adjust the matter with the county commissioners.

On motion it was ordered that the city extend the sewer from North Elm street down West Gaston to North Green.

A warrant for $446 was ordered drawn to pay an account due the Gamewell Fire Alarm and Telegraph Company.

On motion of Alderman Elam the Mayor was requested to call a special meeting of the board for Friday night for the purpose of considering the waterworks matter and hearing a report from the committee appointed to investigate the advisability of erecting a bullding for the Eagle Hose Company and the Hook and Ladder Company.

Reality.

He sought for Fame
And found a shining nut
Without a kernel.

He sought for Wealth
And found a brilliant heap,
Which blinded him and weighed him down,
So that he could walk straight no more,
And went erratically
Where Right and Wrong held sway.

He sought for Power
And found a hard, high chair,
Wherein he sat
And cursed his awful luck,
While men, like puppets,
Bowed and fawned beneath him—
But slid their troubles to his ashing back.

He sought for Love
And found a full-grown flower,
Fragrant and sweet and pure,
And every petal held a grain of honey
On which he feasted—
And the joy of simple life then held him low,
And lost him in oblivion.

Andrew Coats of Perth, England, who died recently at the age of eighty-five, was the last of four brothers who built up the spool cotton trade, representing many millions. Their father was an humble Paisley weaver.

One of the girls at Waterville, Me., several months ago wrote her name and address on a piece of cotton. The other day she received a letter from a woman in Arizona, who said that the cloth had been bought by Uncle Sam and was being cut up for garments in a school for the Apache Indians there.

Among the many symptoms of eye defect none is more tryidg on thot delicate organ, and uone more alarming to those famila, with the eye and its ailments, than is that condition wheae objects become "jumbled" at close range. We have talked "steam laundry" for High Point some time and are glad to know and to inform our readers that such an enterprise is to be established here. Mr. O. F. Wilkerson is the gentleman who will be in charge of the plant, which will be located in that portion of the Welch building on Main street lately occupied by Wrightenbury Bros. The plant has been in operation at Wilson. Mr. Wilkerson expects to have all the machinery here and up by the last of this week, ready to go to work the first of next week. The wagon will call for and deliver your laundry "while you wait." The style of the firm will be the High Point Steam Laundry Co. We have said all along that if a steam laundry paid anywhere in the State, one would pay here, and we are still of this opinion. There is a good amount of "washing" here, to say nothing of such a large territory there is to draw from. We welcome this needed enterprise to town.

Three Unfulfilled Predictions.

Newbern Journal.

The immense strides in cotton mill building in the South, and the profits which have come to stockholders of these southern cotton mills have caused at least three predictions to be made: that New England mills would to go out of the business on account of Southern competition; that if New England cotton mills were able to continue, they would not be able to pay dividends; and that the South was over doing the cotton mill building. That none of these predictions have been filled, is well known.

JOHNSTON'S CASE

I know this story is true, for Johnston told it to me himself, and he has not imagination enough to invent an untruth.

He told me that if you should attempt to enter into conversation with a fellow passenger in a Chicago train he probably would present you with the card in question as a delicate hint that he wanted to be left in peace.

" 'I am going down to Warwickshire to-morrow,' I said"—continued Johnston—" 'to spend a few days with Scoble, and I'll take this card with me. If some one insists on talking to me when I'm reading my paper I'll try what handing him the card will do.'

"I took the train at Euston, traveling second class.

"My fellow-passenger was a fine-looking woman of about 30. The heat of the day and the excitement of catching the train had given her a florid color, and I could see that the desire of condemning the weather and exposing the wickedness of a cabman was strong within her.

"Presently the woman caught my eye and said: 'I beg your pardon, but will you tell me the exact time? My cabman——'

"But here I handed the woman the Chicago card I had received the day before.

"She read it and then said 'O, indeed! So sorry. Pray excuse me,' and then lapsed in silence, while I resumed my newspaper and congratulated myself on the efficacy of the American plan of dealing with railway bores.

"It is true that my conscience did give an occasional twinge, for the distinction between telling a lie and handing a person a ready-made lie printed on a card was not very perceptible. I asked myself whether in giving the woman a card with the words, 'I am deaf and dumb,' I had not been guilty of lying as certainly as I should have been if I had told her the same thing in so many words.

"At Willesden Junction another passenger got in. This time it was a young lady who was evidently expected by the elder lady.

"By and by my attention was aroused in spite of myself by hearing the elder lady mention my name. 'You ill?' she soon said, 'I had to come to-day because John has asked that tiresome Johnston to spend a week with us, and of course it wouldn't do for me to be away.'

" 'But, auntie,' said the other, 'how do you know that he is tiresome if you have never seen him?'

" 'I know it, for one thing, because John's friends always are tiresome. It does seem as if he deliberately chose the most stupid men he could find and asked them down to Greencroft, just to make life a burden to me. And then, my dear, for another thing, I tried to read this detestable Johnston's books. Anything more stupid and silly you can't possibly imagine.'

"So I was actually traveling in the same carriage with Scoble's wife and niece, and the former was dreading my arrival at her house and looking upon me as a tiresome nuisance.

"The two ladies talked on, but happily seemed to forget the existence of the unfortunate Johnston. Once Mrs. Scoble came to the window where I was sitting, to point out something to her niece, and the swaying of the carriage nearly threw her on my lap.

"Just then the elder lady began one of those nervous and hurried searches for her purse which women when traveling are so prone to make.

" 'It is gone!' she exclaimed; 'and I am sure that fellow in the corner picked my pocket when I was looking out of his window.'

" 'He could not have done that,' replied the niece, 'for I was looking at him at the time, and he never once took his hands or his eyes away from his newspaper.'

" 'My dear child! Do you suppose you are quick enough to watch the motions of a professional pickpocket? That man has my purse, I am perfectly sure of it; and I shall give him in charge the moment we get to Rugby.'

"It was clear that I must bolt from the carriage the instant the train reached the Rugby platform, and before a policeman could be called. The train was already slowing, and I hastily gathered up my rug and umbrella, and prepared to move toward the door.

" 'No, you don't, my man!' said Mrs. Scoble, rising and taking possession of the door by the simple process of thrusting half of her ample person through the window.

"I saw at once that the game was up.

" 'That man has picked my pocket,' said Mrs. Scoble, as soon as the policeman opened the door. 'Search him and you'll find my purse in his possession. It is marked 'A. D. S.' and has four five-pound notes, two sovereigns, and some change in it, besides my ticket.'

" 'What do you say to this?' the policeman asked me, evidently impressed with the certainty of my guilt.

" 'Simply that it isn't true,' I replied. 'I know nothing of the lady's purse, and I can easely convince you that I am a respectable person.'

" 'My goodness!' exclaimed my accuser. 'Why, the fellow isn't deaf and dumb. That shows what a scoundrel he is!'

"I rose up to follow the policeman, and my foot struck against something that was lying on the floor of the carriage. I stopped and picked it up. It was the missing purse.

" 'Is that your purse, madam?' I asked, as I held it up. 'You must have dropped it when you were looking out of my window.'

" 'I wouldn't advise him to play that game any more,' said the policeman, severely. 'Let me tell you, sir, that if you travel under false pretenses you needn't be surprised if you find yourself in trouble. You'll have to give me your name and address, in case anything more comes of this.'

"I gave him my address as soon as I could get away from the carriage, and at the same time I gave him a surreptitious five shillings and asked him not give my name to Mrs. Scoble.

"I saw Scoble on the platform as the train drew up at Greencroft, but he did not see me, for I had concealed myself behind the curtains of the carriage. I watched him until his back was turned and then sprang out and bolted into the cloakroom, which was close at hand. I hoped to remain there until Scoble had left the station, but I was disappointed. The porter in attendance, finding that I had no particular business wih him, immediately suspected me of designs upon the property under his charge and told me I must not stay in the cloakroom. I tried bribery, but the action only confirmed his suspicions, and he roughly ordered me to go about my business or he would have me arrested. Just then Scoble spied me.

" 'Why, here you are, after all!' he exclaimed. 'Where on earth have you been?'

"The niece had returned, and was standing looking in bewilderment, first at me, and then at her uncle. Suddenly she took in the full meaning of the situation, and, after saying to me, 'Is this Mr. Johnston?' burst into uncontrollable laughter.

"There never was anything so contagious and irresistible as that laugh since the world began, and the flash of the girl's mischievous eyes would have made John Calvin smile even in the act of burning a heretic. I could not help it, but in another moment I found myself joining in the girl's laughter, while Scoble stood and gazed at us with an almost frightend expression.

"The niece was the first to speak. 'Uncle,' she said, 'there has been a mistake that would have been perfectly awful if Mr. Johnston had not been a real humorist and seen the funny side of it. Auntie has driven home for she could not wait any longer, and we all three walk home together, and you shall know all about it.'

"I hesitated a second and then said to myself that I would meet fifty aunts sooner than say good-by to the niece before I had convinced her that I was not always stupid, and that I could sometimes be other than a nuisance. I not only walked home with her and faced the dismayed and repentant aunt, but I staid my full week at Greencroft. When I came away I was engaged to be married, and had already begun to call Mrs. Scobel 'aunt,' partly to snow her that I bore no malice and partly by way of emphasizing the triumph that the man whom she had called stupid had won."

"Cleanliness is an excellent habit," says Dr. T. J. Hillis, in the Medical Record, "but it is not an absolute essential, nor an essential at all to good health and mental activity Almost all people who live to an extreme old age are found to be those who are not over-fond of ablutions."

Isa Quack Doctor More Dangerous than a Quack Plumber?

When you are sick why is it that you do not peddle out the job of dosing you, to the lowest bidder? You would get it done much cheaper than your family physician would do it, but some QUACK DOCTOR would get the job. Your plumbing is of vital importance and you can no more afford to have your plumbing done by a quack plumber than to call in a quack doctor when sick.

Give us your work and it will be done properly and price will be reasonable.

RHEUMATISM

Distorts Muscles, Shatters Nerves, Stiffens Joints.

Is due to an acid poison which gains access to the blood through failure of the proper organs to carry off and keep the system clear of all morbid, effete matter. This poison through the general circulation is deposited in the joints, muscles and nerves, causing the most intense pain.

Rheumatism may attack with such suddenness and severity as to make within a few days a healthy, active person helpless and bed-ridden, with distorted limbs and shattered nerves; or it may be slow in developing, with slight wandering pains, just severe enough to make one feel uncomfortable; the tendency in such cases is to grow worse, and finally become chronic.

Like other blood diseases, Rheumatism is often inherited, and exposure to damp or cold, want of proper food, insufficient clothing, or anything calculated to impair the health, will frequently cause it to develop in early life, but more often not until middle age or later. In whatever form, whether acute or chronic, acquired or inherited, Rheumatism is Strictly a Blood Disease, and no liniment or other external treatment can reach the trouble. Neither do the preparations of potash and mercury, and the various mineral salts, which the doctors always prescribe, cure Rheumatism, but ruin the digestion and break down the constitution.

A remedy which builds up the general health and at the same time rids the system of the poison is the only safe and certain cure for Rheumatism. S. S. S., made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful solvent, purifying properties, attacks the disease in the right way, and in the right place—the blood—and quickly neutralizes the acid and dissolves all poisonous deposits, stimulates and reinforces the overworked, worn-out organs, and clears the system of all unhealthy accumulations. S. S. S. cures permanently and thoroughly, and keeps the blood in a pure, healthy state.

Mr. J. O. Malley, 123 W. 15th Street, Indianapolis, Ind., for eighteen months was so terribly afflicted with Rheumatism he was unable to feed or dress himself. Doctors said his case was hopeless. He had tried fifty-two prescriptions that friends had given him, without the slightest relief. A few bottles of S. S. S. cured him permanently, and he has never had a rheumatic pain since. This was five years ago.

We will send free our special book on Rheumatism, which should be in the hands of every sufferer from this torturing disease. Our physicians have made blood and skin diseases a life study, and will give you any information or advice wanted, so write them fully and freely about your case. We make no charge whatever for this service. Address, SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13, 1900.

TODAY'S NEWS TODAY.

Today's news today is the motto of afternoon papers. Living up to this motto is a difficult undertaking for afternoon papers in North Carolina, with such limited patronage and consequent limited facilities. However, the Telegram is doing what can be done in this line, and while our reports are not always so full as might be desired, still they are enough to let it be known what is happening. We are led to make these remarks now from the fact that the Telegram is among the few afterooon papers of the State that gave a full report of the session of the legislature yesterday. And we are glad to announce that we will continue to give telegraphic reports daily while the legislature is in session. The people need not wait for tomorrow's morning papers to learn what the legislature did today.

We believe that the people of Greensboro want a paper that has some life and enterprise, and which pays especial attention to giving the news in a fair and comprehensive way, and with a proper assortment, selection and emphasis. Such a paper the Telegram is endeavoring to make of itself.

THE STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

In the matter of the granting of a franchise to the Guilford Power Company, which has been under the consideration of the Aldermen for a few days, and which was last night granted, the Telegram has contented itself with giving in full the discussions of the questions by, and before, the Aldermen, without obtruding its advice upon them, because of the fact that they, as representatives of the people and as officers in whose hands the peolpes' interests are safe, have shown a most commendable disposition to be careful, and to thoroughly investigate a proposed step of so much importance, before taking it.

As a general principle we believe in the public ownership and operation of municipal conveniences, and the entire country is coming to this basis very rapidly. Still there are times when a theory is not always practicable, as now appears. At such times it becomes necessary to do the best that can be done. So far as we are informed, the present franchise is regarded as quite fair and liberal towards the city, and that the people, anxious as they are, for a street railway, are satisfied with it.

STRUCK THE WRONG TRAIL.

In one of their latest campaign tricks the Republicans have gotten into the position of the Irishman who went up the tree and caught the coon but then called down to his pardner to come up and help him turn the animal loose. This is the interesting story:

Some days ago the Charlotte Observer contained the following editortorial paragraph:

The struggle of the white people of North Carolina to rid themselves of the danger of the rule of negroes and the lower class of whites is being watched with interest outside the State. The Columbia State, for instance, says that 'South Carolina people are very much interested in the campaign for white supremacy in North Carolina and are are hoping for success;' and further: 'We trust our friends across the border will not be disappointed in the result. They are making a good fight—a fight worthy of North Carolina Democrats.' For the interest and prayers of our outside friends we owe them our thanks.

Immediately the Republicans of Greensboro jumped upon the paragraph like a duck after a June bug. They bought all the papers that could be had and sent them out to their speakers. They ordered, it was said, 50,000 cards printed, to be distributed, declaring that this was an admission that there was a plan to disfranchise the "poor white man." The Observer heard of this and said:

"Nay, nay, Pauline! We didn't say anything about the "poor white man" nor the illiterate white man, but the language was plain: "Negroes and lower class of whites,"—meaning such cattle as are having these 50,000 cards printed, seeking to pervert what they perfectly well know was The Observer's meaning. These, not the poor nor the ignorant, are the lower class of whites, and it is of their rule, as well as of the negroes, that the decent people of the State intend to be rid.

Nevertheless, the card continued to be sent out, and is as follows:

The Charlotte Observer, the leading Democratic paper, in its issue of June 6th, 1900, editorially, says:

"The struggle of the white people of North Carolina to rid themselves of the danger of the rule of negroes and the lower class of whites is being watched with interest outside of the State."

Does this mean that "No white man should be deprived of his vote?" This editorial can only mean that the poor, illiterate, laboring white man must be disfranchised.

The Observer yesterday morning replied to the card as follows:

With a due sense of the gravity of the language, we have to say that the writer of the last sentence quoted above is a born liar. The editorial in question did not say nor mean that "the poor, illiterate laboring white man must be disfranchised," and the author of this anonymous card knew that he was lying when he sought to twist the language into this meaning.

Which is quite as warm as the weather.

IT HAVE CAME.

An Atlanta brother in "de fol'" recently received this bit of jubilation from a brother who was temporarily restrained from the freedom of Liberty county by an edict of court:

"Dear brother in de fol'
Satan is much ter blame;
But heah is one he couldn't hol'—
De Light—de Light have came!

"Satan is lak' a beast er prey,
En mighty ha'd ter tame;
But heah is one dat broke away—
De Light—de Light have came!

"Fetch al de mo'ners higher,
Ontell dey shoutin' some;
Send down the heavenly fire,
But—cool it fo' it come!"

When the light was caming it had to trickle between the bars that cruelly forbade the singer the privilege of Liberty county. It appears from the last line of the last verse that the bard had not wholly been free from the trials of this life, and could not altogether rise above them at last, though he soared so high in the beginning.

The British will no doubt come off with more glory in China than they have achieved in South Africa. The chasing of 2,000 Boxers by sixteen English marines is a pretty good start.

A pinch of soda on a hot stove will drive away disagreeable odors of cooking.

Spots can be cleaned from varnished furniture by rubbing with spirits of camphor.

White silk handkerchiefs must not be dampened, but pressed with a moderate iron when dry.

The most perfectly made pie-crust will not be light unless the pie is put into a very hot oven at first.

Scorch marks may be removed with lemon juice and salt gently rubbed on the place and put in the sun.

If parafine that has been used over jelly is carefully washed and dried it can be used over and over again.

A screw eye inserted in the top of a broom or mop handle is far more convenient and lasting than a cord.

Cover for Flower Pot.

Here is a pretty and quickly made cover for a flower pot. It is in that ever useful crinkled paper, a medium shade of olive green, and pale coral pink.

Place the green paper over the pink, then box-pleat both together, fixing the pleats by lightly tacking a few inches from each end with a needle and cotton.

The depth of the paper and the required length when pleated up must, if course, be regulated by the depth of the pot required to be covered. It should be three inches deeper than the pot, to allow for the frill at each edge standing out one and one-half inch.

Pin the pleated paper round the pot then fold lengths of the pink paper and fix round tightly over the tackings; finish each band with a bow. Pull out the pleats at the top with the fingers to make them set in scallops and show the lining.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

Weatherspoon, one of the most popular and prosperous young merchants of the thriving town of Sanford, led to the marriage altar Miss Lizzie P. McIver, sister of Dr. Charles D. McIver, of this city, and the past several years, one of the most esteemed and successful teachers in our city schools.

The day was a perfect wedding day—clear, bright and calm—one of those rare days in June that seems the very "bridal of the earth and sky," as if nature were giving her loving sanction to the happy consummation of earthly love that she was about to witnesss.

Long before the appointed hour for the sacred ceremony, the picturesque little church was filled with the friends and relatives of the contracting parties. In the assembled crowd were to be seen the bright faces of the little school children whose tender feet the bride had guided with loving care along the flowery paths of knowledge. Meet and touching was this, their beautiful tribute of love to their beloved teacher.

The little church had been transformed into a bower of beauty by the deft fingers of loving women. The windows were darkened and within the church the bright June day was softened into a dim, sweet twilight. The altar was beautifully decorated with intermingled bamboo and wild roses. In front of this background stately palms were tastefully grouped and, like stars amid the palms of paradise shone the lighted candles.

Suddenly from the organ burst the sweet familiar notes of Mendelsshon's wedding march, to whose soft strains, the world over, on similar occasions, so many feet have kept time and so many hearts have kept beat. A hush of glad expectancy fell upon the waiting crowd, and through the church door and down the aisle passed the bridal procession to join the minister waiting in front of the altar. In front came the ushers—Claude R. McIver, brother of the bride, and Chalmers McLean, W. A. Murray and W. Crabtree. Behind these came the bride and groom, the bride clad in an elegant going-away gown of green cloth and bearing in her hand a large bouquet of exquisite pearl of the garden roses and ferns. With grace and taste and becoming solemnity the pastor of the church, Rev. Charles Hodgin, conducted the simple marriage ceremony. Amid soft strains of music the "wilt thou" is answered and the "wilt thou" asked, "till out of twain her sweet 'I will' has made them one." Fervently then and devoutly the man of God prayed for the hearth and home founded that day in affections and implored divine benediction.

Then Miss Annie Pugh, the organist, again skillfully touched the keys, and as the tender melody of the "Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, filled the soft summer air and broke the solemn stillness, out again passed the bridal procession.

Out of the church and into the world to begin a broader, fuller life, passed the happy bride and groom. And as they passed, from the hearts of a host of waiting friends there rose for them the prayer:

"Let endless Peace your steadfast hearts accord,
And blessed Plentie wait upon your bord."

A Chicago girl writes to a friend about her hero, who is a soldier in the Philippines. She says: "I got a letter from ——. He is getting along splendid. He has been assigned to the guard for five days. Says it is a pretty hot place; but then, you know, he never shrinks from his duty. Ma and I are naturally proud to hear of his promotion."

SOME WOMEN WHO WORK

THE ODD AND UNTRIED AVENUES OF EMPLOYMENT.

One Shoots Wild Horses—Another Hangs Pictures for a Living—Still another Drives a Coach—Some Raise Dogs and Song Birds.

Many bright and versatile women with the courage of their convictions have undoubtedly sought and obtained the means of livelihood, if not wealth-producing business, in a variety of queer occupations. In spite of frequent outcries from the pulpit and elsewhere against the rivalry and competition of female labor, a lot of women here and there are hewing out for themselves pretty large niches in the temple of fame and human enterprise.

Perhaps no woman in the United States has a stranger occupation than that of Mrs. Maud Whiteman of Humboldt, Nev. She shoots wild horses for their skins, and at times earns about $5 a day at it. In some western states wild horses have increased so rapidly that they monopolize the best grazing and frighten cattle off the ranges, so they are ruthlessly killed for their hides. She is usually accompanied by her father, a war veteran, in her wild horse chasing. The skins of the animals shot are taken off dexterously, dried on sage bushes and then sold for about $2 each.

A Kansas City girl of Irish birth was naturalized in April, 1899, in order to become a notary public.

Miss Daisy Stevenson is one of the few women butchers in this country. She took up this line of work as a means of family support in Rochester, N. Y., last summer. She is 28 years old and of good business and conversational abilities. She says the work of meat cutting and of disposing of the odds and ends as well as the choice cuts is not harder than general housework. Above all, she rejoices in being "her own boss," which means a great deal.

There is in New York a young woman who hangs pictures for a living. Her novel occupation is both pleasant and profitable. She never considers a job for less than $10. She finds most of her customers among people of moderate means, who cannot, like the very wealthy, employ a distinguished artist or first-class decorator for such work, and there is always an opening for her where homes are changed or where rooms are re-arranged to present a different appearance each season. This young woman, whose name is withheld on account of high social connections, began life as the youngest daughter of a well-to-do Boston family. When her father died and reverses came, she had to look out for herself; she knew that for all big places open to women there were ten applicants to one vacancy, so she made up her mind to think up some little field all untried by other women and attempt to climb in and fill the niche. Success came. She thinks there is room for other women in this occupation, and recommends them to give her idea consideration, for she supports herself and her mother comfortably by it, and that is the main test.

Miss E. M. Davisson went into practical politics—which means that she placed herself "in the hands of her friends," with public office in view—and she is now attorney of Brown County, Nebraska. But she did not get the office until she had a legal fight with a man who wanted it.

Mrs. May Preston Slosson, a graduate of Vassar and wife of one of the professors of the state university at Laramie, Wyo., entered upon the work of chaplain of the Wyoming state penitentiary.

Cattle ranching is Mrs. Anna Martin's strong suit. During the big cattle boom in Texas in November she made what was probably the largest cattle deal ever made by a woman. Mrs. Martin, whose home is in Mason County, bought 6,000 3-year-old steers from Charles Schemer of Kerr County. The price for the lot was $150,000 Mrs. Martin is called a shrewd cattle woman. Her purpose was to feed the herd of 3-year-olds for three months, and then sell them at a profit of $30,000.

Miss Agnes Oliver, whose home is within a few miles of Augusta, Ga., makes a comfortable living for herself and her mother by growing bulbs and selling them to northern seed houses.

Miss Louise Cheatam of Aiken, S. C., raises and trains native song birds for a living. Beagle raising is the means by which Miss Asch, also living near Aiken, earns a good living. She has a thriving business in pet dogs. Miss Ida Norrell, near Augusta, Ga., earns a fair living by distilling cape jasmines and selling her product to perfumers. Miss Marie Christiansen, who originally came from Sweden as a masseuse, now makes good money by exercising dogs for the owners of pampered canine pets. Her business is in New York, where pet dogs are more popular just now than babies. Mrs. Henrietta McDonald claims to be the only woman who earns a living as a wine tester. She is the daughter of an extensive wine grower of California. Her late husband was a wine merchant. She has now a regular clientage in a number of the largest cities of this country.

Miss Eleanor Burwell of New York is a young woman who makes a living by dressing brides, and a very good living at that.

Nothing that has ever yet been produced in the way of summer footwear for men will begin to compare for comfort, coolness and durability with shoes made of tan vici kid. If you have never tried shoes made of this material, ask any man who has worn them and you will find him ehthusiastic in their praise. But it is possible to have too much of a good thing and we find ourselves overstocked with certain lines of tan vici shoes So in order to reduce the surplus, we have cut some fifty pairs of the $3 50, $3.00 and $2.75 grades down to $2.48. You can see the samples of these in our north window the rest of this week and if you are going to need another pair of shoes this summer it will be worth your while to stop and take a look at these. DYSPEPSIA

"My wife suffered for many years from Nervous Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Sleeplessness and Nervous Debility," writes John Kelloes, Philadelphia. "We tried many physicians and numerous remedies, but with no results, until I heard of Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure. We bought six boxes, and the results far surpassed our expectations. She now eats and sleeps well, is gaining in flesh, and her color, which had got to be yellow and sickly, is now as fresh as when we were first married, and I tell her that Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure has made her ten years younger."

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman Knows Woman.

ZURICH, KAN., Jan. 31.

I used Wine of Cardui for nervousness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardui to my lady friends during pregnancy and after birth as a tonic. Every lady who takes it finds that it does even more than is claimed for it.

MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the ailments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and cured with Wine of Cardui. Is it any wonder she recommends it? Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it. They know. They have actual experience to prompt them. They spread the tidings from mouth to mouth, telling how Wine of Cardui helps young girls, helps the weak of all ages, helps and cures all womanly ills.

TRAILING SHEEP.

May Be the Last Great Drive Across States From Pacific Northwest.

J. I. Carson, a well-known drover, is in Portland preparing to start "on the trail" with 8,500 yearling wethers, purchased in Morrow county. He says he would like to buy about 6,000 more, but remarked: "They are holding 'em too high for me. I am willing to pay $2.25 a head for wethers, and $2.75 for ewes, but eastern Oregon sheep men think they are worth more, so we can't trade."

Mr. Carson says he will start his big flock early in May, just as soon as the sheep have been shorn. He will probably ship by train from Heppner to Huntington, and ferry across the Snake River near the terminus of the Oregon Railroad. He has not yet solved the problem as regards crossing Wyoming, as the new quarantine law of the state was formed to prevent sheep "trailing" across its lands. He was thinking, therefore, of spending the summer and fall in the Wood River Mountains, and will decide in the meantime how to invade Wyoming.

He thinks this will be the last band of sheep "trailed" across the State of Idaho, as the Snake River plains are now nearly all claimed for range, and the water has been about all taken up. In one locality he will have a twenty-five mile drive without watering places, and as six miles a day is a fair day's travel, the sheep will have to go without water for four days on a stretch. He will drive over this region in the night time, as the weather will be too hot to enable the animals to travel without water. The country along there is sage brush and sand, and great care will have to be exercised in order to avoid losing sheep. He will provide the band with twenty bells, he says, and by counting these and the black sheep frequently, the men will be able to miss any large number that might be left behind.

"Trailing sheep across Oregon, Idaho and Wyoming used to be a picnic," Mr. Carson says, "when the country was open, but now we expect more or less trouble from people who claim the grass all along the route. We can hunt and fish while the sheep are resting during the heat of the day, and our frequent change of location creates perpetual novelty. Once in a while some irate farmer or cattle man gets after us, fearing our flocks will eat his grass all up before we get by, but we have thus far avoided any serious trouble, and we hope to pull through without any in this our last trailing venture across Idaho."

Mr. Carson has been purchasing Oregon sheep for the "trail" for quite a number of years, he says, but never had to pay as much for them as now. "Five years ago," he said, "I bought all the yearlings I wanted at $1 a head in eastern Oregon, and, drove them through to Central City, Neb., where I had them fed on corn that cost eight cents a bushel, and on hay at two dollars a ton, delivered. And yet our firm made no money out of the transaction—just came out even. We hope to make money now."—Morning Oregonian.

Finger Ring Craze.

The craze for finger rings increases, and even imitations are selling astonishingly. Paris is said to be equally enamored of this fancy. Smart Parisiennes who do not walk when in ceremonious toilets have dropped wearing gloves at teas and the theatre in order to show their many and lovely rings, and they are carrying charming little fancy muffs, lined with fur, trimmed with real violets and orchids, and hung by jeweled chains, to keep their hands warm and white as well.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

For the First Time in 15 Years.

On account of the approaching commencement at the State Normal and Industrial College and other pressing matters, Dr. Charles D McIver is unable to attend the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, now in session at Morehead City. With the Sick.

Mr. Joe M. Clymer is quite ill at his home on Buchanan street. His friends hope to see him out soon.

Mr. D. A. Lundie is confined to his room at the Monroe House, suffering from a severe attack of something like neuralgia.

Mark Hambourg, the pianist, told a Kansas City reporter recently that as a child he disliked music and liked football and other outdoor sports, just like any other healthy boy, but his parents made him practice, torture though it was to him, when he heard his mates shouting and playing outside. When he was eight years old, however, he fell into the spell of music, loved the instrument he once despised and at eleven was a traveling prodigy.

Young men will find the Summer School at Oak Ridge Institute a splendid place to spend the pull season in getting ready to make a bigger salary next year. Bookkeeping, short hand, typewriting, telegraphy, literary studies taught. 6-2. 6t- ed.

Across the River.

When for me the silent oar
Parts the silent river—
And I stand upon the shore
Of the strange forever;
Shall I miss the loved and known;
Shall I vainly seek mine own?

Can the bonds that make us here
Know ourselves immortal,
Drop away like foliage sere
At life's inner portal?
What is holier below
Must forever live and grow.

He who plants within our hearts
All this deep affection,
Giving when the form departs
Fadeless recollection,
Will but clasp the unbroken chain
Closer when we meet again.

Therefore dread I not to go
O'er the silent river;
Death, thy hastening oar I know,
Bear me, thou life-giver,
Through the waters to the shore
Where mine own have gone before.
—Lucy Larcom.

The Reason.

Mr. Spelter—Oh, you may talk as you please, Jane, but you were an ignorant woman when you married me."
Mrs. Spelter—Yes, that probably accounts for it.

The One Day Cold Cure.

THE GRAND JURY DISCHARGED.

Enough Business on the Criminal Docket to Run Court a Week Longer.

The grand jury for this term of Court was discharged yesterday afternoon, having been in session eight days. Much business was transacted, though a number of bills sent in by the solicitor were not acted upon on account of absence of witnesses and other causes. As it is, a sufficient number of bills have been returned to keep the criminal docket running until the middle of next week, which means that practically no business on the civil docket will be transacted during this term of court.

Before being discharged the grand jury visited the county home, the jail and the county office, reporting everything to be in good condition.

The showers today will not intefere in the least with the Southside Hose Company,s lawn party tonight. The Asheboro Street Graded School lawn is in excellent condition and will accommodate a large crowd.

Unless food is digested quickly it will ferment and irritate the stomach. After each meal take a teaspoonful of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and will allow you to eat all you need of what you like. It never fails to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. It is pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.
